BRIGGS & STRATTON TECHNOLOGIES

FORM AS 7088 6/92

PIONEERS AND INNOVATORS OF AUTOMOTIVE SECURITY PRODUCTS . . . BRIGGS & STRATTON TECHNOLOGIES

The "Superior" produced by Briggs & Stratton in 1909 from purchased components.

Many automotive and air cooled engine innovations are credited to Briggs & Stratton. In 1907 Stephen Foster Briggs was eager to apply his engineering education after graduation from South Dakota State College. His ambition was to produce an engine for the rapidly expanding automotive industry. Bill Juneau, a coach at South Dakota State, knew of Briggs' ambition and the entrepreneurial interest of Harold Mead Stratton, a successful grain merchant. Steve Briggs and Harry Stratton were introduced, and with that introduction, Briggs & Stratton was born. The company operated as a partnership until incorporation in 1909. One of the first products built by Briggs & Stratton was the automobile shown to the left. Only three "Superiors" were built from purchased parts. Two touring cars and one roadster later, Briggs & Stratton decided to focus on building parts as an automotive supplier.

During the year's 1909 through 1930, Briggs & Stratton rapidly grew in prominence as manufacturers of automotive ignitions, electrical switches, automotive locks and keys and die cast body hardware. Other products included: BASCO door handles, inside knobs and levers, ignition, door and compartment locks all supplied with BASCO keys. By late 1929, the company had become the world's largest manufacturer of automobile locks. Then and today, Briggs & Stratton continues to provide more than 75% of the domestic auto requirement for automotive locks and keys. Other automotive patents credited to Briggs & Stratton include the window regulator (window roll-up device), engine oil filters, cushion action starter, which was standard on Ford V/8 Mercury and Lincoln Zephyr. Briggs & Stratton manufactured padlocks with a case hardened steel shackle that could be keyed to the customer's car key. A universal key machine was manufactured and marketed by the company that could cut almost any key in use at that time. It sold for $34.95 with a code book.

Engineering innovation continues at Briggs & Stratton Technologies. Several new automotive lock designs for General Motors have been introduced since 1986 including the V.A.T.S. (Vehicle Anti Theft System). Many new designs are on the drawing boards now to be introduced in the late 1980s for an ever-changing and security-conscious automotive market place.

Harry Stratton and Steve Briggs, far left, founders of the Company, take a spin on the Flyer, a buckboard-like vehicle propelled by a 2 HP Model D Motor Wheel.

Aftermarket Support Through Parts, Catalogs and Training Since 1929

Over 50 years of aftermarket cataloging and instruction. (Antique Catalogs Courtesy of Claire and Sam Zeldin, Philadelphia, PA.)

Briggs & Stratton's commitment to the service aftermarket began in the 1920s with Lock and Key catalogs, service charts, training and full availability of assemblies, parts and key blanks. Today, over 60 years later, Briggs & Stratton Technologies continues to offer the most complete line of parts, service manuals and year-to-year cataloging available. Service seminars to the locksmith profession have been offered through National ALOA and regional chapter affiliates since the mid 1970s. Franchise automobile dealers and aftermarket parts wholesalers are also resellers of the Briggs & Stratton Technologies' line.

FOREWORD

Every effort has been made to assure the accuracy of part numbers and application data in this catalog. Should you find an error or have a comment, please send your correction or comment to the Automotive Service Department, Briggs & Stratton Technologies, P.O. Box 702, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53201.

We wish to recognize the following Automotive Lock Supply Distributors who helped draft and proof this catalog: Tom Vandersteen, Frank Vandersteen and Sons, Green Bay, Wisconsin; Rudy Wiesner, Allied Locksmith Supply, Youngstown, Ohio; Bob Walkling, Power Equipment Company, Carpinteria, California; We also wish to recognize the entire staff of the Briggs & Stratton Graphic Services department, for their assistance in the layout and Design of this catalog.

This new catalog is designed to be a quick reference for your Domestic Automotive Security servicing. About eighty percent of our current 800 part numbers are cataloged. The AS-1975 Service Manual remains your complete guide for year-by-year cataloging with service instructions. Contact the Factory or your Lock Supply Distributor to order your manual or obtain further details.

Service.

Your Key To Unlock Performance.

You know what you need to service your customers. So do we.
At Briggs & Stratton Technologies, service begins with the highest quality automotive locks.

Service continues with replacement parts that fit with the same precision as the original. Parts designed for easy installation using the tools you carry in your tool box. No surprises. Like needing a special tool found only in an assembly plant.

You get the most updated information and learn the latest lock servicing techniques through hands-on workshops and detailed instruction manuals.

No guesswork.

The kind of training a skilled technician needs in an increasingly complicated field.

Count on Briggs & Stratton Technologies for the parts and service you need.
